Multi Level Purchasing Distributor Control

The INFO.NET system has the ability to maintain inventory control and plan inventory levels for both vendor and customer distributors, including the creation and tracking of resupply orders. The internal user can perform these functions directly from his or her site, or the vendor distributor can perform these functions through the use of a vendor workbench, which will limit their access to the internal system functions.

Each vendor distributor can be resupplied by any number of additional vendors, including additional layers of vendor distributors, which can also have their inventories maintained by the Info.Net system.

The MRP / DRP systems can, optionally, examine the vendor inventories and replan their resupply orders.
